

Are you working in research?

This course might be for you!

CREATE

Health and Care Research Explained: A Training Environment

Why attend?

- Provides a foundation of knowledge to enable you to develop your practice and knowledge in research.
- An opportunity to gain an understanding of the management and running of clinical studies.
- Ideal for all research staff, patient facing and non patient facing

Learner Feedback

“Very beneficial. It explains most of the things I found it difficult to understand. I will continue to visit the learning materials on NIHR. Thank you.”

“It was incredibly helpful and I think it’s an excellent resource for anyone starting out in clinical research. When starting in this field it felt like my knowledge was a tangled ball of yarn all over the place, but this course has helped to untangle it and wind it up neatly!”

“This course has given me invaluable insight into how the process of conducting research from study inception to delivery and archiving.”

Book Now

This blended learning course of live and online learning is aimed at those who have worked in research delivery for less than 12 months and is beneficial as a refresher.

Support from an experienced mentor is required