

Are you working in research in a participant facing role?

Join our Informed Consent in Research training course

Why attend?

- This 4-week training package is designed in a modular format and combines a wide variety of learning activities.
- You will engage with interactive content, have tasks to complete, reflect on your own and other's practice and have opportunities to experience receiving consent.

Learner Feedback

"I appreciate how they gave the participants independence to learn."

"I loved the course I feel it consolidated learning - from both completing the online learning to attending the virtual meetings. This is one of the courses I have highly recommended for all research staff to undertake - even those who like myself have been in research for years."

"The discussion and the experience of the other participants in the live training cemented my understanding in the topic."

Book Now

This blended learning course of live and online learning is aimed at those who have worked in research delivery for less than 12 months and is beneficial as a refresher.

Support from an experienced mentor is required